Summary

I'm a final-year B.Tech Computer Science student at Techno India University (Class of 2026) with a strong interest in software development, artificial intelligence, and data-driven systems.

I enjoy building practical technology solutions and experimenting with new ideas through projects. My work includes chatbot systems, quiz platforms, UI/UX design prototypes, and research exploration in cybersecurity, which helped me develop a strong foundation in programming, web development, and problem-solving.

Currently, I'm exploring AI applications, data analytics, and intelligent systems that solve real-world problems.

I enjoy learning by building, collaborating with other developers, and exploring new technologies.

Always open to connecting with developers, researchers, and professionals in the tech ecosystem.
